

* STOP PRESS 29 *

CS29 : I know, I know, late again. Everything was on time and ready to rumble but the machine that prints the magazine was out of action for two weeks so we had to wait until it was repaired.

CS30 : This issue has already got some high class articles in it and this issue will contain a couple of extra pages with some pages in colour as well ! - I was supposed to be taking a break !!

CSTech2000 : By the time you read this 'stop press' the CSTech2000 special edition will be at the printers. There will be approximately two or three spare issues so if you want one then you will have to be quick. The price is £5 in the UK (£6 world wide) and includes four (count 'em) coverdisks.

Action Line : Sebastian would like to purchase Last Ninja 1,2 on disk for the C64 and Ninja Remix on Amiga. He will pay any price (his words, not mine). Contact him directly at ShannibalS@aol.com

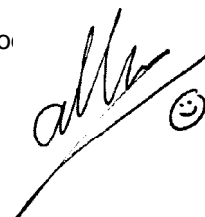

CS CD-ROM : The first draft of the CS CD-ROM (which contains the entire GEOS library) has been completed. More news will be given out in CS30.

GoDot : Arndt Dettke has agreed to let CS distribute GoDot in the UK. This means a drastically reduced price over the normal CMD price. I am currently rewriting the manual for the UK market and it should be ready before August. The manual will have a full colour cover with some colour pages inside as well.

Coverdisks : There is a real timebomb brewing for the coverdisks that accompany CS - more details next issue.

Love & kisses ! : I recently sent out some letters and parcels to various people but unknown to me, my wife decided to put 'kisses' on the bottom of the letters as a joke ! So, if you received one of these letters with kisses on them don't worry as I am definately not 'on the turn', it is just my wife having a larf !

CS web site : As the site grows in popularity (quite a lot of hits now), I have been receiving some good feedback and it is obvious that some changes will have to be made. Keep checking the site for all the improvements which are bound to follow soon.

Keep it Commodore !

* STOP PRESS 29 *

CS29 : I know, I know, late again. Everything was on time and ready to rumble but the machine that prints the magazine was out of action for two weeks so we had to wait until it was repaired.

CS30 : This issue has already got some high class articles in it and this issue will contain a couple of extra pages with some pages in colour as well ! - I was supposed to be taking a break !!

CSTech2000 : By the time you read this 'stop press' the CSTech2000 special edition will be at the printers. There will be approximately two or three spare issues so if you want one then you will have to be quick. The price is £5 in the UK (£6 world wide) and includes four (count 'em) coverdisks.

Action Line : Sebastian would like to purchase Last Ninja 1,2 on disk for the C64 and Ninja Remix on Amiga. He will pay any price (his words, not mine). Contact him directly at ShannibalS@aol.com

CS CD-ROM : The first draft of the CS CD-ROM (which contains the entire GEOS library) has been completed. More news will be given out in CS30.

GoDot : Arndt Dettke has agreed to let CS distribute GoDot in the UK. This means a drastically reduced price over the normal CMD price. I am currently rewriting the manual for the UK market and it should be ready before August. The manual will have a full colour cover with some colour pages inside as well.

Coverdisks : There is a real timebomb brewing for the coverdisks that accompany CS - more details next issue.

Love & kisses ! : I recently sent out some letters and parcels to various people but unknown to me, my wife decided to put 'kisses' on the bottom of the letters as a joke ! So, if you received one of these letters with kisses on them don't worry as I am definately not 'on the turn', it is just my wife having a larf !

CS web site : As the site grows in popularity (quite a lot of hits now), I have been receiving some good feedback and it is obvious that some changes will have to be made. Keep checking the site for all the improvements which are bound to follow soon.

Keep it Commodore !